State Representative Ron Mariano attended the South Shore Workforce Investment Board (SSWIB) meeting on Thursday, September 25, 2014 at the Quincy Chamber of Commerce. During the meeting Rep. Mariano was presented with a Distinguished Service award in recognition of his service on behalf of all the working families that comprise the South Shore Workforce Investment Board Region. The award was presented by Mayor Thomas Koch, Don Uvanitte, Chair of the SSWIB, Greg Hanley, SSWIB member and Plymouth County Commissioner and Joyce Livramento-Young, SSWIB Executive Director.

Rep. Mariano has been a tireless advocate of displaced workers as well as local businesses on matters of job training programs and implementation of job training initiatives as well as seeking legislation and funding for such programs.

Rep. Mariano represents the 3rd Norfolk District (Quincy, Weymouth, and Holbrook) and he's been fostering successful employee and workplace relationships since being elected State Representative in December 1991. Rep. Mariano efforts have helped create jobs and enhance the overall employment success of his district.

The South Shore Workforce Investment Board in conjunction with the South Shore Career Centers, works with major corporations, small businesses, educational institutions, community based organizations and labor organizations throughout 22 cities and towns on the South Shore to provide workforce development leadership throughout the region. The SSWIB as well as Rep. Mariano work to ensure the region's employment needs are met by a vibrant, educated, trained, skilled and resourceful workforce.
